VFW Drill Squad Winning Honors

The Rifle Drill Squad of Allen K. Reynolds Post No. 892, Veterans of Foreign Wars, is winning laurels in the short time that it has been organized.

The precision drill squad made its first appearance here in the Memorial Day parade and since then has mastered the "Queen Anne" drill routine. The drill is an old English army dress parade drill which features a precision rifle manual.

In competition this summer the Veterans of Foreign Wars group placed second in an event at Mineral Ridge and Girard. An honorable defeat was to East Liverpool, the state VFW championship drill team which was second in national competition at Miami, Fla.

The Salem VFW Rifle Drill Squad, which will enter state competition next spring, is composed of army, navy and marine corps overseas veterans of World War II and the Korean conflict. It is directed by Dan Sutherin, who was an army drill sergeant in the last war.

The drill squad will be seen again here during the Halloween night parade Oct. 31. It will march at Lisbon on Oct. 5 and in Dover Oct. 23.

Any eligible overseas veteran interested in joining the group should contact Marshal Sutherin, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post.

Eight Persons Are Injured In Weekend Road Accidents

Texas Regions Threatened By New Floods

DALLAS (AP)—Texas, pounded by storms and floods last spring, then scorched by drought again during the summer, faced new flood threats today after rains of up to 8½ inches in some areas.

Floods menaced San Antonio and the Medina area in south central Texas after 8½ inches of rain were dumped along the Medina River northwest of San Antonio Sunday. An unofficial 7½ inches fell in parts of Beeville, to the southeast.

Officials warned of possible lowland flooding along the Medina and its tributaries. One family was marooned on a ranch near the town of Medina, 50 miles northwest of San Antonio.

The Escondido Creek in Karves County rose swiftly after up to 6 inches of rain hit the area. Lowland residents were cautioned.

Most of the thunderstorms were in the eastern half of the state as a cool front moved through and out into the Gulf of Mexico. Small craft warnings were hoisted along the coast. Lesser storms hit parts of West Texas. Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Austin, Beaumont and Abilene also got hard rains.

Kenedy had 5.85 inches yesterday and Nordheim, another south Texas community, more than 8 inches unofficially.

Many other points had minor flooding, some wind and lightning damage and a rash of traffic accidents.

Rises sending the Guadalupe River and Cibola Creek, both north of San Antonio, to near bankful were expected by the Weather Bureau.

In many areas, hurt by the summer's lack of rain and still scarred by years of drought, the moisture was a blessing. At Ennis, in north central Texas, a slow, gentle fall of 5.4 inches restored depleted stock water and filled municipal lakes, but interrupted the cotton harvest.

Both are in fair condition at the Central Clinic.

Sevek was unhurt. He was cited for reckless operation.

Three Persons Injured

Three East Liverpool residents were hurt when two cars collided on County Road 424, four miles east of Glenmoor, Sunday at 5 p.m.

Injured were Lloyd and Ruth Lockhardt, both 55, and Russell Freeman, 53.

Patrolmen said Freeman pulled his car from a driveway into the path of Lockhardt's vehicle.

All three were taken to the East Liverpool City Hospital.

Lockhardt was treated for possible chest injuries and multiple face lacerations. His wife, Ruth, is in fair condition at the hospital with multiple face lacerations, fracture of the left shoulder and right ankle.

Red China Not Expected to Be Seated In U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The General Assembly is expected today to sidetrack until next year the question of seating Communist China in the U.N.

Delegates generally foresaw that the Assembly would adopt a U.S. resolution late today on recommendation of its Steering Committee.

Indian sources conceded that India lacked the votes to get the Chinese representation issue on the agenda.

Nationalist Chinese Delegate K. W. Yu told a reporter his delegation calculated perhaps 50 delegations will vote for the U.S. The vote last year was 47-24 with 8 abstentions.

The U.S. resolution, which cleared the Steering Committee 9-4 with 2 abstentions Thursday, rejected the Indian request. It said the Assembly would consider no proposals this session to oust Nationalist or seat Communist China.

John Diefenbaker, Canada's new prime minister, chose the Assembly's morning meeting as the occasion for his first major foreign policy speech.

Take Up Posts Around Central High School

Ready For Trouble If Negroes Attempt To Enter Building

BULLETIN

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. —Eight Negro students slipped into a side door at Central High School Monday while a diversionary group of Negro adults fought with an angry crowd of whites to divert their attention. Fights broke out immediately and state police joined city patrolmen to battle the surging whites.

LITTLE ROCK, Ar. (AP)—Barriades blocked off the street in front of Central High School today and 85 state and city policemen took up stations, ready for trouble if Negro students try to enter the school.

Their orders—by contrast with the orders to the National Guard last week—are not to turn away the Negroes.

Lt. Mack Thompson of the state troopers said his men "will act as peace officers, preserving peace and order."

He assigned 50 troopers to the school.

Another 35 Little Rock city policemen were ordered there by Mayor Woodrow Wilson Mann and the mayor said their orders were to permit the Negro students to enter if they appear.

Conflicting reports came from the Negro students on whether they would enter. Some said earlier they intended to appear but later told reporters they were not sure what they would do.

A Negro newspaper publisher, L. C. Bates, said none of the nine who were originally screened and accepted for enrollment by the Little Rock Board of Education would try to enter.

Gov. Orval Faubus, in Sea Island, Ga., said, "I am apprehensive of disorder and violence. I hope calmness and tolerance will prevail."

Tries to Sell Secrets to Reds

Air Force Captain Gets Life Sentence

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y. (AP)—George A. French, Air Force captain sentenced to life imprisonment for trying to sell secret information to the Soviet Union, owed thousands of dollars in gambling debts, according to his wife, and an Air Force spokesman.

Mrs. Dorothy G. French, who married the airman in 1941, said Sunday: "George was a gambler, not the racetrack type, but a devoted poker player. He loved the game. I never knew the extent of his poker playing until a month ago, when a mutual friend told me I'd better have a talk with him."

"I was told he was deep in debt, well into the thousands of dollars."

In Washington, an Air Force spokesman said French had contracted a string of loans in connection with the gambling debts.

French's court-martial and life sentence were disclosed last Saturday with an announcement that he had asked the Russians to buy atomic secrets.

The Air Force said French had been tried in secret at Barksdale Air Force Base, near Shreveport, La., by a seven-man court-martial. His family here heard of the trial after the conviction was announced.

Mrs. French said she wrote to her husband about the gambling but that he denied it.

"All he told me," she said, "was 'stick by me. I am in trouble and I will need you.'"

Mrs. John French, the captain's stepmother, said his father knew he was in trouble over gambling. The Frenchs have three children, Bonnie, 14, Jane, 9, and Linda, 22 months.

Mrs. French said she objected to the "secrecy" of her husband's trial.

"I should have been informed of the charges against him, according to the democratic way," she said she will stand by her husband.

French was a combat bombardier during World War II and the

86 Feared Lost In Sinking of Ship

Two Empty Lifeboats, Raft Seen in Atlantic

LONDON (AP)—The Hamburg owners of the German sailing ship Pamir said today they presumed the four-masted bark had been lost in the stormlashed Atlantic.

The owners held out hope, however, that some survivors of 86 aboard might still be found.

The announcement came from the shipping industry and government foundation that owns the 3,103-ton sailing vessel that vanished Saturday after radioing that she had lost all her sails about 550 miles southwest of the Azores.

The foundation said 62 cadets, of whom 25 were on their first trip, were aboard the vessel. There were 17 regular crew men and 7 officers. This made a total of 86 persons aboard.

The finding of two empty lifeboats and a raft previously had raised fears the vessel had gone down.

Rescue planes and ships crisscrossed the mid-Atlantic without finding a trace of the four-master that had weathered many a storm in her 52 years at sea.

Her operators held out hope that the Pamir had survived the storm kicked up by Hurricane Carrie. It was pointed out the lifeboats and raft could have been ripped from their lashings.

The Pamir, carrying barley from Buenos Aires to Hamburg, radioed Saturday night that she was sinking about 600 miles west of the Azores.

The ship was listing at 45 degrees and all sails had been stripped away.

U.S. Air Force planes reported Sunday night that they had spotted two lifeboats and a raft, all empty.

One battered lifeboat bore the name "Luebeck," the West German city where the 3,102-ton was registered.

The ship was operated by Zersen and Co. of Luebeck as a grain carrier and training ship for the German shipping industry. It carried a number of maritime cadets.

In New York, the Coast Guard reported Sunday night that its cutter Absecon, a Canadian destroyer escort and three merchant ships had reached the Pamir's last reported position. Other ships were on the way there.

Rigby Mast, 43, Charged With Embezzlement

Indictment Lists 4 Counts Involving Total of $1,270

BULLETIN

Mayor Dean B. Cranmer of Salem, charged with embezzlement of $375 in city funds, asked for a delay in arraignment today and his appearance in court at Lisbon was set for next Friday at 10 a.m. by Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp.

The request was made by Atty. Sam Chertoff of East Liverpool, acting for Atty. Robert Hartford of East Palestine, the mayor's counsel.

Mayor Cranmer was indicted by the grand jury Sept. 14 as the result of a state examiner's audit of the mayor's office receipts June 3, 1957. The mayor is at liberty under $1,000 bond.

Former Columbiana County welfare director Rigby Mast, 43, indicted secretly by the September Grand Jury on four counts of embezzlement totaling $1,270 was taken into custody by sheriff's deputies this morning.

The indictment listed the amounts allegedly taken by Mast as $150, $200, $420 and $500. The thefts were reported as having occurred between Oct. 5, 1956 and July 26, 1957.

Two Secret Indictments

The charge against Mast is one of two new secret indictments returned by the Grand Jury. Altogether that body has returned 35 true bills since the jurors began their current session Sept. 10.

Mast was arrested following the grand jury's secret indictment against him Friday. The second new secret indictment has not been disclosed.

Previously the grand jury returned three other secret true bills, one against Mayor Dean B. Cranmer of Salem for embezzlement of $375 in city funds. Cranmer was at the Lisbon Courthouse this morning to face the court and have his trial date set. He has been at liberty under $1,000 bond furnished by Leslie Dunlap.

Mast Resigned July 30

Mast resigned from the welfare department July 30, effective Sept. 1.

W. A. Hunston, president of the Columbiana County commissioners, said then that Mast gave no reason for his resignation.

The former welfare director was named to succeed Matt Curry to that post in 1951. A World War II veteran, he was a school at-

A truck, later recovered, and a four-foot-by-20-inch concrete safe containing $60 in cash and an undetermined amount of checks were stolen over the weekend from the Pennzoll Co. just south of the corporation limits of Salem on Rt. 45.

Charles Leach of RD 4, Salem, manager of the Pennzoll bulk station, reported that thieves entered the station by breaking a window in the rear of the building and crawling through the opening.

The thefts were not discovered until 1 a.m. Sunday when Salem police were notified by Perry Township Constable John Herman Jr. that a Pennzoll truck was parked on a road near the Salem dump.

Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan said the safe has not been recovered. His department is still investigating the breaking and entering, he said.

Highway Department Studies Report On Section of Freeway

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Department of Highways today is examining a preliminary study of an approximate location for a 90-mile section of the Cincinnati to Conneaut Freeway.

The section runs from the Columbus Expressway system, roughly between U.S. 40 and Ohio 3, to the Cincinnati area.

The initial engineering reports were prepared by the consulting engineer firms of Louis Berger & Associates of Harrisburg, Pa., and Elmer S. Barrett Associates of Chillicothe.

They studied several possible routes and recommended the approximate route that runs closest to Dayton and Springfield, department spokesmen said.

The studies indicate the freeway, from Harrisburg at the south Franklin County line to the Hamilton County line, will cost about $85,290,000.

"This route study does not set forth any exact line, design features such as traffic interchanges and so forth," pointed out P. E. Masheter, the department's deputy director for design and construction. "It is only a preliminary study of an approximate location."

The department and the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads — which will pick up the tab for 90 percent of the cost — will study the consultants' report together. If they agree with the consultants, they will ask for a more detailed study which will result in a "design report."

Masheter estimates that report may be ready during the first part of next year. The report also will be studied by the department and bureau for rejection, approval or modification.

Leghorn Hen Lays 354 Eggs In 357 Days

FLEMINGTON, N.J. (AP)—Meggi O'Day, the Mickey Mantle of the poultry world, had added another championship to her list of titles.

The little Leghorn hen laid another egg Sunday, her 354th in 357 days, to break the old record of eggs laid in a one-year span.

The previous record of 353 eggs in 365 days was established in 1949-50 by a Leghorn from the J. A. Hanson & Son farm in Corvallis, Ore. Meggi has seven more days to go to increase her margin over the old title holder.

Meggi is shelling 'em out as a participant in the Hunterdon County egg laying contest, supervised by Prof. Clarence S. Platt of the Rutgers University College of Agriculture. Platt says she probably will continue her daily production until the end of the month.

When Meg failed to lay Aug. 14, she already had established a record by laying 284 eggs in 284 days without a miss. Since last October, the other days she has skipped an egg were last Nov. 3 and again Aug. 20.

Meg and 12 of her sisters were entered in the contest by the Stern Brothers hatchery in South Vineland.

Archeologists Find Pool of Gibeon

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Archeologists have uncovered the biblical pool of Gibeon and the spring of ancient Israel is flowing again after 25 centuries, the University of Pennsylvania museum reported today.

The pool was discovered 82 feet down in hard limestone.

The archeologists also uncovered evidence that wine-making was a flourishing industry before Gibeon and its environs were laid waste by King Nebuchadnezzar in 587 B.C.

The Bible refers to Gibeon as the place where the sun stood still and stones rained down from the sky as Joshua routed the invading Amorites.

The diggers who cleared the 37-foot wide pit found a water jar lying unbroken in the spring where it had been left by the last user more than 25 centuries ago.

Young Girl Walks Away From 7,600 Volt Shock

DENVER (AP)—Gretta Bohlmann, 9, got up and walked away Sunday from a 7,600-volt shock, three times that used in electric chairs.

She is under treatment at Porter Hospital today for burns of the left hand and arm, chest, stomach and thigh.

Restaurant operator Phillip Frye said he found Gretta walking away after she suffered the jolt in a high-voltage shed at a shopping center where she brushed against a transformer.

Frye went to investigate after the electricity went off at his cafe.

Village Green: A Symbol

The Village Green, a memento of Salem's 150th birthday celebration last year, is nearly completed at the corner of State and Lincoln. Landscaping and installation of a water fountain are expected to be done soon. A fund drive for $3,500 is under way privately at the present time and its success is practically assured.

Thus will conclude a chapter in the city's history, with the Village Green standing constantly to remind the people of the community of good days gone by and of greater days to come.

The Village Green is more than an idea born of men's minds to transform an ugly building into a thing of beauty. The Village Green is a symbol of the community, telling of the energies and steadfastness of her people, their sorrows, accomplishments and their aspirations.

The colonial architecture of the building, the walks and lawn will forever be an invitation for visitors and passersby. On a bronze plaque they will read:

"This Village Green project is dedicated to the citizens and friends of Salem on the occasion of Salem's Sesquicentennial celebration and in honor of the men and women of this community, who, by their patriotism and loyalty, served God and country in the wars of our nation. Sponsored by the Salem Historical Society, June, 1956."

It stands as a tribute to the living and the dead, yet offers a challenge of inherent principles to those who will mold the city's future.

Social Security in the Red

The 75 million Americans who have confidently depended on Social Security to help provide for their future are being rudely jolted by the hard, cold facts of reality. The system is running in the red.

In the last fiscal year payroll taxes fell 125 million dollars short of covering the benefits paid out to 10 million retired workers and dependents. Last year's deficit was more than covered by the 600 million dollars the U.S. Treasury paid in interest on the 23-million-dollar trust fund invested in government bonds.

This year the deficit will eat up all the interest and by next year there will be a deficit of one billion dollars.

What has upset the calculations of the Social Security experts has been recently legislated higher benefit payments and more extensive coverage.

In 1954, for example, Congress voted to include self-employed farmers in the system. Under provisions of the act a farmer who had paid Social Security taxes for only two years could retire at 65 with a lifetime income of $108.50 a month, if single or $162.50 if married.

Instead of the estimated 150,000, some 275,000 farmers signed up for the program. Thousands of these farmers came out of retirement, farmed two years, paid $252 Social Security tax and are now set with an income for life.

When Congress lowered the age to 62 years for working women or wives of pensioners it was anticipated that 740,000 women would be the maximum number. Now Social Security experts have revised the estimate upward to 790,000.

Despite all evidence to the contrary, Social Security officials still talk of ultimately having a huge trust fund that will pay a major share of the costs out of investment income.

If Congress passes the hopper full of bills which were introduced at this session it will take the bat trick of the century to keep Social Security from going bankrupt.

The trouble all stems from politicians in both parties trying to stretch Social Security too fast in the headlong race to win votes.

To Pay or Not to Pay

The Federal Communications Commission has finally gone far enough out on a limb to agree to consider authorizing trial runs of "pay television" sometime next year.

While this is about as hedged as a decision can be, it nevertheless represents a considerable advance for the controversial proposal to charge TV fans for special programs. The FCC has put off action for three years hoping Congress would set the policy. It concluded something had to be done after Congress passed the bill to it again in 1957.

Plenty of television viewers themselves view the idea with suspicion. They fear the system would deprive them, if they did not pay the toll, of some programs they now get free.

And even the backers of the plan have taken cognizance of the opposition. Believing that such names as "Pay TV" and "Toll TV" are much too crass, they have come out in favor of the nicer sounding label of "Subscription Television." But it still adds up to the same bill.

Chicago police found a bundle of letters mailed in a trash container. For bills, that wouldn't be bad.

Spiritual Kin

By ED CREAUGH

WASHINGTON (AP) — In Orval Faubus you have a spiritual kin to Joe McCarthy.

Some personal resemblances are obvious: Two country boys. Both ambitious. Both slow starters. Faubus finished high school at the age of 24. McCarthy was well launched on a small town business career when he decided to get a high school diploma.

And of course there are differences too between the embattled governor of Arkansas and the late junior senator from Wisconsin.

Faubus is the play-it-close-to-your-chest type—not that he can't take dramatic action when he thinks the time is ripe. He did this in calling out National Guard troops to halt integration and-or preserve order at Little Rock Central High School.

McCarthy, on the other hand, was usually one to act first and weigh the consequences later. He would rush in where Faubus might fear to tread.

Their basic common ground appears to be this:

A conviction on the part of each man that he—rather than the generally accepted processes of law and order—had the solution to a problem of headline-making proportions.

With McCarthy the problem was communism. His argument was that he, or his Senate committee, alone had the full power and authority to cope with Red subversion. Time and again McCarthy and his aides said even the FBI couldn't do the job alone.

Faubus' target is school integration—or, as he puts it, "overnight" integration.

The authorities in Little Rock thought they could carry out peaceably the small degree of integration planned in their city this fall. They thought it was their responsibility to do so. Faubus held otherwise and called out the troops.

Neither Faubus nor McCarthy went so far as to say "I am the law," though both have been accused of taking just that attitude.

What they did do is operate outside of, or independently of, the law as most people understand it.

Each man claimed he was taking extraordinary measures to meet an extraordinary danger. Faubus has insisted his action was necessary to prevent violence. McCarthy contended his own course was essential to exposing traitors and their witting or unwitting accomplices.

Likewise, supporters of the two men follow much the same line of argument—that the end justifies the means, that you've got to peel off your kid gloves when you're in the ring against a vicious opponent.

There may be a further similarity between Faubus and McCarthy: A zest for the limelight.

McCarthy seemed to get much of his nourishment from publicity. When it dwindled, so did Joe. In his last years it was pathetic, to those who knew him, to see his eagerness for a mention of his name in the papers.

About Faubus, it is harder to tell. But this writer recalls seeing him at Providence, R. I., after his recent meeting with President Eisenhower, standing in the glare of newsreel lights with very much the expression McCarthy used to wear when the cameras were aimed at him.

For McCarthy, the lights stayed on five years. About Faubus, again, there is doubt. Unknown outside his state a few weeks ago, he may continue as a national figure. Or, if Arkansas finds a peaceful way to live with integration, he may fade to the obscurity of a man without an issue.

Somewhere A Happy Medium?

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Belt tightening in times of conspicuous prosperity is a hard program to sell. But inflation has so upset the balance of world currencies and trade that some nations are trying today to get their people to stop living it up.

Queen Juliana is warning the people of the Netherlands they are living beyond their means. England is discussing the need of a partial return to postwar austerity if the pound sterling is to be saved from further undermining. Finland is freeing all prices as an aftermath to devaluing its currency. France is calling for a meeting of all West European nations to tackle the currency imbalance problem—after mild attempts to halt inflation within its own borders.

And as usual, Europeans once again are blaming the dollar gap as a chief cause rather than the effect of their troubles.

Even in this country, where the dollar stays high and firm in its relation to other currencies, price inflation pressures have led President Eisenhower to urge both to spend less and save more for awhile, and both labor and management to ease up on the price-wage rate.

The European money mess—which has other causes besides inflation—may be discussed at the meetings in Washington next week of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund.

But while a reshuffling of the values of European currencies is

Cold Comfort

The news from Johns Hopkins that Dr. Winston H. Price has come up with the first successful vaccine against one of the principal viruses causing the common cold deserves to be hailed widely—and it will be.

In tests this particular vaccine was effective in 80 per cent of the cases where inoculations were made. But the virus in question is only one of many responsible for colds. It accounts for perhaps 30 per cent of such afflictions.

Amid the cheering, however, a few sad notes will be struck. When the common cold begins to go, along with it will go the best copper-riveted excuse for sleeping in that was ever devised by man.

A cold can be miserable. It can also be handy for ducking not just the office but a variety of onerous neighborhood affairs from overcrowded parties to draggy P.T.A. meetings.

And what are the magazines to do when they can no longer drum out pieces entitled: "What to Do About the Common Cold?"

We may indeed be glad when at last this pesky nuisance can be banished by a stroke of the needle. But we'll have to search long and hard to find another refuge so great and comforting.

'How D'You Know It Won't Hold You, If Y'Don't Try?'

Northern Dems to Cast Off South

By JAY G. HAYDEN

For purposes of the 1958 elections at least, northern Democrats answering to leadership of National Chairman Paul M. Butler clearly have determined to disassociate themselves completely from all southern registers of racial integration.

This attitude was indicated first in a declaration by a majority of the Democratic National Advisory Committee that President Eisenhower had "failed in his duty" by not cracking down harder on Gov. Faubus of Arkansas.

Faubus' attitude, the committee said further, "does not represent the position or policy of the Democratic party."

Participants in that declaration included former President Truman, Adlai Stevenson, Governors Harriman of New York, Williams of Michigan and McFarland of Arizona.

JUST TO MAKE sure that there was no misunderstanding of this edict on either side of the Mason and Dixon Line, Chairman Butler's next stop was at Raleigh, N.C., where he met with the Democratic committee members from nine southern states. Butler served notice that the party nationally "will not pull back, surrender or in any way withdraw" from support of Negro equality measures, including school integration everywhere.

South Carolina's Democratic state chairman, Nevill Bennett, immediately demanded that Butler resign and it was announced that southern state chairmen will meet in Atlanta within the next two weeks "to coordinate future activities and possibly to set up a southern Democratic organization to counter the propaganda of the committee's Democratic Advisory Council."

Mr. Butler capped the climax when he referred to the latter southern maneuver as a "possible third party developing in the South," and added:

"Let me make in perfectly plain, the Democratic party nationally will not in any way permit a third party threat to deter it from its long-held determination to serve the best interests of all Americans, regardless of race, color or creed."

cans, regardless of race, color or creed."

THE MEANING of all this quite plainly is that the forcible resistance to integration by the Democratic governor of Arkansas threw the non-southern Democratic bigwigs into a great fright. Their concern, of course, was the effect of this and other southern defiance on Negro voters who frequently have exercised a balance of power in northern elections. This has been so especially in Michigan and New York, where Williams and Harriman are expected to run for reelection next year. It is so also in New Jersey, where Democratic Gov. Myner right now is in a hot fight for retention of his seat.

The reasoning of the northern Democratic group, as expressed by its Washington adherents, is that Negroes were angered by the near Democratic unanimity in support of the compromise civil rights bill offered by Sen. Johnson of Texas. They say that Negro feeling has greatly increased on account of hectic school developments throughout the South.

This concern is in spite of the fact that the southern school upheaval occurred close after the election in Wisconsin, which placed a Democrat from that state in the U.S. Senate for the first time since the Roosevelt landslide in 1932.

WISCONSIN HAS comparatively few Negroes but the precincts in Milwaukee where they mostly reside all went strongly for William Proxmire, the Democratic nominee.

Democratic politicians conjecture that it might have been different if the Wisconsin vote had come just after, rather than just before, the September school opening.

Therefore the decision that nothing short of a complete repudiation of both Sen. Johnson's and Gov. Faubus' types of democracy can further the continuance of Negroes on the Democratic side.

School events in September, 1956, were generally credited with increasing President Eisenhower's vote both North and South. But it remains to be seen what comparable effects will flow from future September events, ranging up to and beyond the presidential election of 1960.

Pattern Of Power

By JANE THOMAS

(Editor's Note: Some of T.T.'s readers have written vacation columns for him this year. Today's essayist is in public relations work.)

Twirl fans have learned much about sheep and men. But chickens have been ignored. So as a guest columnist, my subject will be chickens.

Before going on to chickens and humans, I would like to recommend R. B. Robertson's "Of Sheep and Men" to all Truman Twirl readers. Many, many books have been written about cattle, horses, and dogs, while sheep have led literally lonely lives in literature. Having just finished reading this delightful story of herds in Scotland, it is a great temptation to "chicken" and confine myself to a discussion of this new book about sheep and men.

But back to chickens. Have you ever observed that there is a definite "pecking order" in any flock of hens? This isn't an old wives' tale, but a scientifically proven phenomenon. It is this pecking order that intrigues me. It makes chickens seem so human!

Psychologists and sociologists have charted this pecking order of chickens, and it follows a set pattern of power. Hen A pecks B, but the latter does not retaliate. Instead, B pecks C, while C takes it out on D.

There are some curious and unexplained sequences, for D may peck A. The pecking order results from previous encounters where the relative prowess of the hens was determined. But it also may be due to accident. D may have met A when A had an off day, gained the advantage in the encounter and retained it with the aid of the psychological dominance thus established.

In humans, the pecking order is not confined to buck passing. History shows the picking on weaker individuals and groups to be almost universal. It begins in each generation with the toddlers and continues to grow and to be reinforced.

Early in life, strength and agility count the most, just as they do with the hens. Then other skills are added. These are important only as they are socially accepted locally. Going to school simply expands the pecking order and learned factors are added. The chief of a boys' gang still is likely to be the fellow who can beat up all the rest or who excels the rest in exploits which call for courage.

Teen-agers seem to be most dependent upon the need to block together to create a sense of belonging and to form a recognizable pattern of importance. Our many adult clubs and organizations are a variation of the over-all pecking order. Today's "organization man" is the logical result of a rigid pecking order in business.

Not relying on physical prowess, the egg-head has a tough time of it today. But the greatest hindrance to a higher place in the pecking order is a difference in color or culture. Any such difference automatically places those persons lower down in the scene of things, unless, of course, they possess unusual abilities that are in vogue at the time. Then they rate a higher place, at least temporarily.

It seems every group must be made to feel more secure by pecking those considered inferior by reason of their "differences," to make up for a lack of individual strength, skills and abilities. The only encouraging part of this picture is that discrimination is a conditioned response, one that must be learned by children from adults. It just doesn't come naturally!

Nor is it based on any natural superiority of one group over another. As we grow in understanding, perhaps we will some day combine our intelligence with our instinct and exclude differences in color or culture from importance in the human pecking order.

"Government names board to probe inflation." —News item.

First Board Member—Well, let's get busy on this stuff. Have a cigar? They're the odd 10-cent ones now three for a dollar.

Second Member—No, thanks, I like a pipe costing twice what it used to. I see you drove up to this meeting in a new de luxe car.

First Member—Yes, it was up to $8,600 from $4,650, but I figured I might as well buy it.

Third Member—Are we all set to proceed? I don't see the official stenographers.

Fourth Member—They've been holding out for higher wages. Ah, here they come! I guess a strike was avoided.

First Member—I hope his is a short session. I've got to get home early and I don't know my new chauffeur well enough to trust him to drive fast in heavy traffic.

Third Member—Your old chauffeur is through? First Member—Yes, he wanted $20 more a week with days off during investigations into inflation.

Fourth Member—I've got to get home early today, too. The cook left in the midst of a wage dispute and I've got to take the wife out to dinner.

Fifth Member—Where do you dine?

Fourth Member—I just heard of a place where they haven't raised the price of a baked potato since last week.

Second Member—The chair is calling us to order. Oops! He busted the gavel. That's too bad. A new one will cost three times the old price.

Third Member — Gosh I just remembered something. I've got to make a phone call. I forgot to tell my tailor I would be late for my fitting of a $75 suit now costing $150 without the vest.

Chairman—Boy, here's a quarter; run out and buy me a ham sandwich.

Boy—They're 50 cents now. And a nickel extra for mustard.

Sixth Member (arriving late)—Sorry to hold this inflation conference up.

Chairman—What delayed you?

Sixth Member—Got held up by a parade of demonstrators for a new wage scale and I no sooner got out of that than I was stymied by mass meeting of industrialists demanding higher prices for their goods.

Chairman—Gentlemen let us proceed before the smog increases.

First Member—You mean even smog is doubling!!!!

Chairman—Brother, what ain't?

Materials with Low Upkeep Are Finding Increasing Favor

Materials with low cost of maintenance are finding increasing favor with today's home buyers and home builders. Used on both exterior and interior surfaces, they accomplish several goals simultaneously: They save money. They add new beauty to the house. They sharply increase the house's resale value.

Masonry materials have been used for years on the outside of the house and their advantages are well known. Not as well known are some of the new materials now available for interior finishes. Old materials, used in different areas of the house, also can provide variety and fresh interest for the imaginative home builder.

Save in Long Run

Some of these materials may be costlier in the initial investment. But over the years they more than make it up in lower maintenance costs.

Further, it is possible to select surfaces on which only small amounts of the costlier materials are necessary, providing a something-added appearance to a wall without much additional cost.

Take a wall in which a fireplace or large bay window is located. The remaining wall space can be covered with bricks, stone or colored concrete blocks — adding interest and variety to the room. Should you prefer wood, vertical paneling or sheet plywood are suitable. New wall materials also include plastic-coated plywood, plastic-coated fabrics and sheet plastics in various forms, colors and designs.

For exterior surfaces, a variety of masonry products can be utilized. Aluminum siding is a new exterior surface, more expensive than other exterior materials but easy and cheap to maintain. It resembles white clapboard and sometimes, too, is used to modernize old houses. It can be installed directly over old clapboards.

Other new exterior surfacing materials constantly are appearing in the form of pressed hard boards and similar materials.

Herman H. York, a prominent architect and designer of small houses, frequently uses a variety of materials on exterior and interior surfaces to add fresh interest to certain areas.

"With a little imagination," York says, "many rooms and space areas can be changed from a monotonous four-wall-alike treatment to one of interest. A change of material on one wall of any room can focus attention in that direction."

The advantages of using variety in a new house were summed up by York:

"The home buyer can make his house more interesting and attractive by the use of several materials for interior finish, if intelligently used. With this added attractiveness, he will reduce the maintenance costs. The end result will be a house with a higher resale value because it has something to set it apart from others."

Here are some ideas for achieving this variety:

Use wood cabinet work as closet partitions, wainscot walls in den and recreation room, use wood or masonry from floor to underside of balcony areas in split level houses or beneath stairways.

Ceramic tiles can be used for fireplace hearths and children's play areas, floor tiles (asphalt, vinyl, linoleum, rubber, etc.) in recreation room, powder rooms, lavatories and nurseries. Cork may be considered as flooring in many rooms.

"Open Planning" Helps

There are a number of ways to lower the cost of maintenance over the years. These include:

Use more "open planning" in your house designs. It not only adds dramatic effect to the living areas but it also eliminates a number of costly partitions.

Use larger glass areas on exterior walls. This will reduce the amount of wall surfacing materials needed for the house.

Plan built-in furniture as a part of the house. This not only reduces the initial cost of furnishing your home but it also sharply cuts the cost of maintaining the walls against which the built-in furniture stands.

Use plastics in planning the illumination of your house. This can reduce the need for ceiling finishes where "luminous ceilings" are used. In such cases, the entire ceiling becomes a lighting fixture.

On floors and in rooms which get a lot of use — children's rooms and recreation rooms — use ceramics and plastics. They're durable and easy to clean — and therefore, cheaper to maintain.

The flat top of a gas clothes dryer, at 36 inches from the floor, provides useful counter or work space.

Want 'New Look?' Try Polka Dot Paint

Paint manufacturers — well aware of the modern housewife's insatiable desire to make her home more and more distinctive — keep turning up with new ways to enable her to do it.

One of the latest is a polka dot paint.

The method goes like this:

First you paint the wall (or walls) of the room to be dotted in the usual fashion — using a dominant color for this base coat. When this paint is dry, the polka dots are sprayed out of an special aerosol spray container which does not require any extra attachments — you simply remove the brass valve pin from the nozzle spray head and are ready to go.

The size of the dots is determined by the distance you hold the can away from the wall: the further away, the smaller the dots. Dots of many colors can be applied without waiting for each to dry.

To get the feel of the operation, be sure to practice with the spray can first on a large piece of cardboard before moving to the painted wall.

For those in search of a period look, there is a new way to refinish old furniture by giving it a highly decorative antique appearance. The gimmick is specially prepared gold dust which can be added to the regular line of the manufacturer's multicolored paint colors. Combinations of jade, black and gold, blue and gold, or white, black and gold are just a few of the decorative possibilities.

The spraying can be done with regular paint sprayer equipment or with the paint sprayer attachment of your vacuum cleaner. The base paint has a consistency which makes it possible to spray the new paint on to old furniture without removing the old finish. No special sanding is required.

Fixit Forum

Q — What will remove chewing gum that is matted into our living-room rug?

A — A good sponging with denatured alcohol or carbon tetrachloride should do the trick. If you use carbon tetrachloride, be careful. While not flammable, carbon tet is poisonous. Work with windows open, and use the cleaner sparingly. If spot is not in range of direct air currents, set up a fan nearby to blow fumes away from working area.

Q — How can I remove the odor of kerosene from a rug?

A — Sponge with vinegar and then with clear water to rinse. This operation may have to be repeated several times.

EARTH PIGMENTS DURABLE

For exterior paint jobs, earth pigments generally are more permanent than chemical colors for surfaces exposed to weather and sunlight. Tinted paint is more durable than white. The major earth pigments are ochre, the siennas, umbers, red iron oxides and "earth" browns and blacks.

Miss Mary Ann Bates Becomes Bride of Charles L. Stack

The wedding of Miss Mary Ann Bates and Charles LeRoy Stack took place Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Ellsworth Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Emory Lowe officiated as the couple exchanged their vows and rings before the altar banked with palms, ferns, bouquets of gladioli and candelabra.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul K. Bates of Ellsworth. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Stack of Canfield.

Mrs. Ira Keslar of Berlin Center accompanied the soloist, Miss Julia Beardsley of Berlin Center, who sang "At Dawning," "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt before the altar.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride appeared in a gown of Chantilly lace and tulle. The fitted bodice was styled with a high scalloped neckline and short scalloped sleeves with which she wore matching elbow-length mitts.

Panels of Chantilly lace were featured in the bouffant skirt of nylon tulle which ended in a chapel train. A double queen's crown of pearls and iridescent sequins held her fingertip veil of illusion. Her bridal bouquet was centered with an orchid.

Ballerina-length gowns in pastel shades fashioned of taffeta overlaid with net and nylon eyelet were worn by the bride's attendants.

The maid of honor, Miss Sandra Jean Bates, sister of the bride, chose an orchid gown styled with a cummerbund effect that was completed by a side sash. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses with matching streamers.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Edwin Cameron who wore yellow, Mrs. Samuel Markota, mint green, and Miss Shirley Stack, blue. Their gowns featured a cummerbund which ended in a butterfly bow in the back.

The attendants' scalloped veils were held in place by small headbands which matched their gowns. Pink roses formed their colonial bouquets.

Delores Stack, sister of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a blue nylon ruffled dress and carried a basket of pink rose petals.

George E. Playforth of Youngstown was best man. Ushers were Joseph Greasal and Kenneth Grisdale of Canfield and Edwin Cameron of Salem. The bride's brother, John Martin Bates, was ring bearer.

Corsages of pink rosebuds complemented the ensembles worn by the couple's mothers. Mrs. Bates chose a beige lace sheath, while Mrs. Stack wore a black faille sheath with black accessories.

The reception was held in the American Legion Hall in Canfield. The bridesmaids' bouquets surrounded the four-tiered cake which centered the refreshment table.

Mrs. Pat Berardi, Mrs. Merle Pellicioni, Mrs. Robert Berardi and Mrs. Robert Boals served.

Mrs. George E. Playforth registered the guests from Youngstown, Salem, Canton, Hubbard and Warren.

The couple are graduates of Canfield High School. Mrs. Stack is employed in the office of the Salem China Co. Mr. Stack is employed by the Canfield Fair Board.

For her honeymoon trip to New England, Mrs. Stack wore a red jersey sheath with black accessories and the orchid from her wedding bouquet. Following their trip, the couple will reside at 193 N. Union Ave., Salem.

The rehearsal dinner was held Friday evening at the home of the bride's parents.

Guarding Your Health

By DR. EDWIN P. JORDAN

Cerebral Thrombosis

A reader asks what are the chances for recovery from a cerebral thrombosis in a man of 54 with partial paralysis of the left arm and leg. The stroke occurred about seven months ago and both arm and leg are slowly improving.

To this question one can give a somewhat hopeful but reserved answer. The fact that improvement is still taking place is a good sign. But no one can say just how far this improvement will go.

A cerebral thrombosis refers to a clot in one of the blood vessels supplying the brain. This is one form of "stroke" or "apoplexy." The latter terms are used for blood vessels of the brain or bleeding into the brain tissue. Both as a rule are the result of some hardening of the blood vessels supplying the brain which often develops as one grows older.

What symptoms develop from a stroke depend partly on whether it is caused by bleeding or by a clot. What part of the brain is involved and how large an area is damaged are more important, however.

It is the latter which determines whether the person will develop paralysis, and where, and whether the symptoms will be temporary or lasting. It should be added that most strokes are painless. One-sided headache is not unusual at the beginning.

Many people survive even a fairly severe stroke and return to reasonably good health. Some can suffer several strokes without being too badly incapacitated.

There is little which medicine can do at the time a stroke is actually occurring. In fact the damage has usually been done by the time the physician arrives on the scene.

However, anyone who suffers a stroke should have medical attention since what is done — or not done — may influence the degree of later improvement.

In achieving the greatest amount of improvement the will to get well is considered extremely important. Without this help from the patient the physician is severely handicapped.

The nursing care which the patient receives is of great value. The medical treatment includes early exercise and electric stimulation of the muscles.

There has been much work done on rehabilitation measures in recent years. Recovery often goes much farther than was thought possible. Both active steps taken by the patient at the proper time and passive measures achieved by physiotherapy and the like have contributed to this improved outlook.

Little Rock

Negros, was in Georgia attending the Southern Governors Conference.

He said it is always possible that he will again station guardsmen around Central High School if violence flares there.

Put Under Injunction

Last Friday, a U.S. District Court put Faubus under injunction not to interfere further with the enrollment of Negroes at Central High.

Officers of the state troopers told their men to prepare for two or three days duty.

The mayor issued a formal statement as the hour for opening classes approached. He said: "A strong police detail will be on hand at Little Rock Central High School to deal with any effort by mob leaders to breach the peace of this community. Arrangements have been made for additional assistance if that becomes necessary."

"Violations of city ordinances and state laws will be dealt with firmly. I have advised that violations of the pending federal injunctions will meet the full weight of the U.S. government."

Expresses Confidence

"I feel confident that city authorities have the complete support of this community on the issue of mob rule as opposed to law and order."

Mrs. Margaret Jackson, vice president of the League of Central High Mothers, said: "We hope to have a big demonstration to show that the people of Little Rock are still against integration."

"I hope they (the Negroes) won't get in."

A number of clergymen in Little Rock offered prayers Sunday for peaceful integration. Some devoted sermons to the integration issue.

Before he left for Sea Island, Faubus said he hoped the NAACP would not be so "reckless as to try to push this thing through until after a cooling-off period."

He said the NAACP is calling signals on the actions of the Negro students.

Five Negroes who tried to enter a Little Rock church Sunday were turned away, and left peacefully.

W. S. Simmons, chairman of the board of Henderson Methodist Church said a Negro couple, followed by three Negro women, came to the church just after the collection had been taken.

He said he consulted with the pastor, the Rev. Herston R. Holland, and advised the five if "would be best for all concerned" if they did not try to enter the all-white church at this time.

Two Minor Traffic Mishaps Investigated

No one was hurt in two minor auto mishaps occurring on city streets over the weekend.

Sylvester Martig, 52, of RD 1, Salem told police an unknown hit-skip driver struck his car while it was parked on Franklin Ave. near Broadway Friday at 11:30 p.m.

Cars operated by James P. Hunter, 44, of 410 Benton Rd. and Lillian M. Grepps, 23, of 608 Woodland Ave. collided Saturday at 2:45 p.m. on W. State St. near Ellsworth Ave.

Count of Votes Awaited in Haiti

Partisans Threaten To Burn Down Capital

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Haiti today tensely awaited the counting of ballots in Sunday's national election, hopeful that whoever becomes president can bring peace to this land of turmoil.

But even as the counting began, partisans of ex-Sen. Louis Dejoie threatened to burn down Port au Prince if he is defeated for the presidency.

Both Dejoie and his bitter political enemy Dr. Francois Duvalier claimed victory in the election of a president for the next six years.

A third candidate, Clement Jumele, called on voters to boycott the election. He charged there was fraud.

The Ministry of Justice announced from a million to 1,300,000 of Haiti's 1,600,000 eligible voters cast ballots. This would indicate few heeded Jumele's call.

Women Eligible To Vote

Women were eligible to vote for the first time.

For all the violence that has plagued Haiti since last December, when the first of a succession of five governments was heaved out, the voting was peaceful.

Provisional President Antonio Kebeure said there was only one fatality. A soldier shot down a voter who attacked him in the southern town of Jacmel. Minor incidents were reported at other points.

Kebeure, who seized power June 14 as head of a three-man military junta, maintained order with 2,500 well-armed soldiers and police.

First results are expected to be known this afternoon. No definite trend will be available before Wednesday due to long delays in reporting tabulations to Port au Prince.

Duvalier, 48, a Negro doctor, pledged honesty in government. He said he would seek U.S. and U.N. aid in developing the nation's agricultural and natural resources if elected.

Duvalier charged that supporters of Dejoie were using large sums of money to buy votes.

Partisans of Dejoie reiterated charges that the military junta had rigged the elections for Duvalier.

Dejoie, 61, is a mulatto plantation owner. He promised economic and industrial progress. He asserted he already had lined up 90 million dollars in U.S. capital to aid this impoverished country.

The election was unique in that its result in fact is being decided by fingerprints. Seventy-six per cent of eligible voters were illiterate.

Polling clerks clipped the nails of the little finger of the right hand of each voter after he dipped the finger in indelible ink and marked his ballot. This was to prevent anyone from voting twice.

Two Men To Undergo Questioning by Police

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Two men arrested near Berea, Ky., will undergo further questioning about a police station shooting at nearby South Lebanon, Sheriff Richard Satterthwaite says.

The two are Robert Noe, 28, and Arnold G. Willoughby, 35. Noe's brother, Joe, 41, has been charged with shooting with intent to wound in the case.

Asst. Police Chief Caesar Sparks wounded in the foot last Wednesday by a shot from a passing car as he stood in the doorway of police headquarters.

Robert Noe and Willoughby fled after the shooting but were arrested in Berea last Saturday and returned here.

The sheriff said the shooting was apparently the aftermath of a drinking party.

Yankees Clinch AL Tie With 5-1 Victory Over Red Sox

Chisox Keep Faint Hope Alive; Cardinals, Braves Are Victors

By The Associated Press
Only the formalities of crowning the New York Yankees kingpins of the American League and the Milwaukee Braves rulers of the National League remained to be taken care of today.

These details could be settled to night when the Chicago White Sox play Kansas City and the Braves meet St. Louis.

The Yanks assured themselves of at least a tie for the AL flag Sunday when they whipped the Boston Red Sox, 5-1.

If the Cards lose one of the three-game set with the Braves, they can start courting their second-place money.

The White Sox kept their faint hope alive Sunday by stopping the Cleveland Indians 9-5.

The Braves downed the Chicago Cubs 9-7, but the Cards stayed with them by halting Cincinnati 7-5.

Among the also-rans, Brooklyn defeated Philadelphia 7-3, and Pittsburgh vanquished New York 5-1 in the National League. In the American, Baltimore edged Washington 6-5, and Kansas City won a double-header from Detroit 4-3 and 2-1.

Cards To Clash With Braves In 3-Game Do-Or-Die Series

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The desperate St. Louis Cardinals prepared to clash with the league-leading Milwaukee Braves in the first of a three-game do-or-die series to night, knowing that one slip could mean the end of the pennant dream.

The Braves, leading St. Louis by five games with only six remaining to play, can clinch their first National League championship with a victory tonight. Manager Fred Haney, who refused to admit the Braves are "in" until it becomes official so, has entrusted the clinching assignment to Lew Burdette, his fidgety right-hander.

Burdette (16-9) will be opposed by Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, the erratic left-hander, transformed from the biggest disappointment to the hottest hurler on the Cardinals. Although he has an 8-10 record, he has won seven of his last 10 decisions.

Except for Haney, the Braves are convinced they have the flag in the bag.

"There's no doubt in my mind now," said Warren Spahn after Sunday's 9-7 triumph over Chicago, the Braves' sixth victory in succession. "We're in. The Cards are dead. One more big one... and it's all over."

Sunday's victory over the Cubs, after trailing 4-0 and 7-4, acted like a tonic to the players. It sort of opened up a valve, letting loose all their pent up emotions and restraint which they had kept bottled up ever since they moved into first place in early August.

"Tomorrow night's the night," exclaimed catcher Del Crandall, a happy grin lighting up his face.

"Yeah," agreed Henry Aaron, the club's big gun. "That's the game I've been waiting for all year. This is the chance for us to do it all by ourselves, with no help from anybody else."

SEIXAS, GIBSON WIN
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Vic Seixas and Althea Gibson won their finals matches handily to become the men's and women's singles champions, respectively, of the 31st annual Pacific Southwest Tennis Tournament.

Seixas, 34-year-old Davis Cup winner from Philadelphia, downed Gilbert Shea, unseeded Los Angeles player, 9-7, 6-3, 6-4 Sunday.

Basilio Favored To Win Title

Betting Is 1-3 That Fight Won't Go Limit

NEW YORK (AP)—Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson defends his title tonight against Carmen Basilio in a battle of champions that could be quick and explosive.

The 30-year-old welterweight king from Chittenango, N. Y., is a 5-7 choice to dethrone the 36 or 37-year-old Sugar Ray in a fight scheduled for 15 rounds at Yankee Stadium. The betting is 1 to 3 the fight won't go the limit.

This is based on Basilio's aggressive, body-punching style and Robinson's vaunted sharp-shooting ability and preference for an opponent who comes to him. And the heavier wallop Robinson will have a weight edge of about eight pounds, 159 to 151, and a decided advantage in height (5-1 to 5-7½ and reach (72½ to 67).

Favoring Basilio is the Harlem dandy's age (Robinson says 36, the record book has it 37), and the question of whether he will be able to unload his bombs against a swarming opponent who will be tossing sticks of dynamite himself. Sugar Ray always has had trouble with foes who crowd him, especially those who can take a punch like Basilio. The ring-scarred Basilio never has been stopped in 70 fights and dropped only once, that early in his career.

Once again, the general feeling is that Sugar Ray will have to nail his iron-chinned foe within six rounds to win.

The pick here is Basilio within 12 rounds. We believe the ex-Marine will cut down his taller rival with thumping body blows, especially with his left hook.

The two champs will share in a million dollar-plus gate with the theater, TV, radio and movies included. Robinson, on his 45 percent of everything, and a $255,000 thrasher-TV guarantee, stands to collect about $500,000. Basilio, getting 20 percent and a $110,000 guarantee for TV, should earn about $225,000.

The promoting International Boxing Club, lowering its sights from an earlier $750,000 gate prediction, now looks for a crowd of 5,000 and a gate of $600,000.

Basilio, a pro since 1948, predicted he would win and duplicate Robinson's unprecedented feat of winning the middleweight title while holding the welterweight crown. Robinson, as usual, made no prediction.

A pro since 1940, Robinson has record including 91 knockouts. He compiled an outstanding 150-5-2 silio has a 51-12-7 record including 25 knockouts.

Scoring will be by rounds with a supplementary point system also used to help break draws. The winner of each round gets from one to four points, the loser none. The referee and two judges will be named at fight time.

FAIRFIELD-WATERFORD WINS 27-19

Fairfield - Waterford won their second straight football contest of the season as they defeated Lowellville with two last period touchdowns 27-19 in a game played on the New Waterford field.

The winners were paced by Dave Brothers who scored two TDs on runs of 25 and 10 yards. Teammates Paul Eisenwein and Dave Groubert also scored touchdowns going eight and 25 yards, respectively. L. Groubert added two extra points, and Brothers, one.

Paul Menichini scored for Lowellville on a one-yard plunge, and Menichini hit Dick DiLullo on a six-yard pass for another. Joe Raymond tossed a 10-yard pass to Fred Rappono for the losers' final tally. Minichini added Lowellville's point after touchdown.

CANFIELD-NORTH LIMA

Goshen Blasts Mooney 26-0; Canfield Beats N. Lima 20-0

Bob Stallsmith went on runs of two and 25 yards for two touchdowns to pace Goshen Union to the first victory of the season in defeating Cardinal Mooney 26-0 Saturday night on the Sebring field.

Stallsmith's first tally came in the initial quarter after a sustained drive of 55 yards. He bulled his way over right tackle for the touchdown. Stallsmith also swept left end for the extra point.

Neither team did much during the second frame, with most of the quarter being played around the mid-field stripe, and Goshen held a 7-0 lead at intermission.

Goshen's second tally came in the third period. Both teams exchanged the ball and then the Goshers started a 50-yard march, with Birkhimer blasting right up the middle for the final two yards and a tally. Stallsmith added the extra point on a run.

About midway into the fourth period, Stallsmith found a big hole in the left side of the line and behind good blocking, went 25 yards for the touchdown. Birkhimer missed the extra point attempt on a run.

Goshen's final tally was scored in the fourth period when DeVal

Mighty Oklahoma is idle.

While Bud Wilkinson's speedy Sooners take a Saturday off, Michigan State, Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa and Tennessee are geared to start gunning for the national championship won by Oklahoma last year and predicted again in The Associated Press pre-season poll.

Oklahoma, whose next opponent is Iowa State Oct. 5, smacked down Pittsburgh 26-9 Saturday for its 41st straight victory since 1953. Pitt, eighth in the early pickings, was considered the top team in the East, but was no match for the Sooners who unveiled a cagey new quarterback in Carl Dodd, Oklahoma halfback Clendon Thomas, the nation's leading major college scorer in 1956, did most of the ball-carrying damage, although three Sooners scores came on tricky aerials, all by different passers.

Iowa's defending Big Ten champions and Michigan should have it the easiest in trying to match Oklahoma's impressive debut. The Hawkeyes meet Utah State, and the Wolverines face Southern California, already soundly whipped by Pacific Coast king Oregon State, 20-0. But Minnesota runs up against a tough Washington outfit that tied Colorado's Orange Bowl winner 6-6; Michigan State opens with conference rival Indiana and Tennessee must handle Auburn, a Southeastern Conference corner.

The two Michigan eleven and Minnesota are rated the best bets to pluck Iowa's crown, and all four, along with Tennessee, were ranked among the nation's top 10 teams.

Overshadowed by the Oklahoma power spurge were strong showings by Georgia Tech, 13-0 over Kentucky; Houston, 7-0 over always-rough Miami, Fla., and Navy, 46-6 over Boston College.

Georgia Tech must come back this week against Southern Methodist, a surprise 13-6 victor over California. Houston is faced with Baylor, the Southwest Conference's choice to finish second be-

Texas Christian To Give OSU Gridders First Test Saturday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Crucial day, but the Pioneers face a rebounding Wittenberg team this weekend. The Springfield team was beaten 9-7 by Akron Saturday night, the Zippers converting a fumble on the six-yard line into a touchdown and a blocked kick into a safety.

Texas Christian, held to a 13-13 tie by underdog Kansas Saturday night, gives Ohio State's Buckeyes their first test Saturday, but four other games between first round winners are attracting plenty of attention.

The big one is Bowling Green at Xavier, where the Be-Gees—the state's top-scoring aggregation—meet the only Buckeye team boasting two victories.

Bowling Green used all 52 players and 10 of them scored in Saturday's 60 - 7 romp over Baldwin Wallace, while Xavier staged a last-period comeback to beat Kent State 13-7. A 98 - yard pass-run play, from Jerry Casper to Jim Wessell, tied it for Xavier, and the Musketeers converted a Kent fumble into the victory margin.

Other battles of the unbeaten send Ohio U. against Toledo in the Mid - American Conference; and Heidelberg against Ohio Wesleyan, and Muskingum against Akron in the Ohio Conference.

Seven of the 19 weekend games are against out-of-state opponents, and the Buckeyes hope to build up the edge they enjoy in interstate play. A year ago the Ohioans won 49, lost 48, tied 4 and were outscored 1613 to 1583 by the outside teams, but up to date the Buckeyes have won 8, lost 3 and outscored the foe by 230 to 117.

Ohio U., tuning up for its clash with Toledo, scored eight touchdowns in the second and third quarters to wallop Indiana, Pa., Teachers 50-0, while the Rockets, winners of only one of nine games last season, opened with a 7 - 0 victory over Eastern Kentucky.

Marietta ended the state's longest losing streak, a 15 - game stretch going back to the last game of 1954, by noosing out West Virginia Wesleyan 13-12 last Saturday.

Little World Series Will Open Tuesday

DENVER (AP)—The 41st Little World Series opens here Tuesday night with Denver of the American Assn. and Buffalo of the International League playing for the top gold and glory of minor league baseball.

This is the first trip for Denver into the event but it's old stuff to Buffalo, winner of the first two championships after the series started in 1904.

Both teams finished second in regular league play but won their respective playoffs.

The first three games will be played in Denver with the rest of the best 4-of-7 series in Buffalo. That schedule will be followed even if there are postponements on account of weather.

Denver reached the series by downing St. Paul in six games and Buffalo advanced by whipping Miami in five.

Tribe Loses 9-5 To White Sox

Score Won't Pitch For Rest of Season

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland needs a victory in its final home game tonight against Detroit to break even with the Tigers on the season's series and earn a half share of the trophy provided by mayors of the neighboring cities.

The Tribe's 9-5 loss to Chicago Sunday, coupled with Baltimore's victory over Washington, sent the Orioles into fifth place, a game ahead of Cleveland in the standings.

After night games in Kansas City Wednesday and Thursday, the Indians move to Chicago for their final three games.

Jim Bunning, who takes a 19-8 record to the mound for the Tigers tonight against Cal McLish (8-7) can become the second American League pitcher to win 20 games by conquering the Tribe, Chicago's Billy Pierce did it Sunday and now has a 20-11 record.

Pierce actually was trailing 3-2 and had been nipped for a half dozen hits by the end of the fifth inning, the last frame he pitched. But in the sixth the White Sox came up with four runs against rookie Bob Alexander and Hank Aguirre.

Mike Garcia, who had five strikeouts to Pierce's four and had given only five hits, was hit on the leg by a liner smashed by Ted Beard in the fifth inning. Garcia was unable to start the sixth inning in which Chicago went ahead to stay.

The White Sox filled the bases against Alexander on a walk and to the mound. Sherm Lollar lined two safe bunts, and Aguirre went out, but a run came in on a wild pitch, and Walt Drogo singled home another. Aguirre uncorked another wild pitch then issued an intentional walk to reload the bases. Runs then came home on Nellie Fox's single and a force out.

Vito Valentini pitched the last two innings, yielding five hits and three more runs, one unearned because of a wild throw by shortstop Billy Harrell.

The Indians made it official Sunday that Herb Score would not pitch any of the last six games. A joint announcement by the club physician, Dr. Don Kelly, and Score's specialist, Dr. Charles I. Thomas, said:

"Score's depth perception has improved greatly, but not to the extent that would indicate he is ready to return to the mound this season. This is a slow process and requires prolonged exercise. Little could be gained and much could be lost by a premature return. However, it is anticipated that he will be ready to resume his pitching career next spring."

A line drive by Gil McDougald struck Score in the right eye May 7.

Green Bay's Exhibition Wins Marks It As Team To Watch

By The Associated Press
If anyone cares to make post-season predictions on the basis of pre-season exhibitions then the National Football League championship game in December will have the defending champion New York Giants facing the Green Bay Packers.

The league officially opens its 1957 season next Sunday, and if exhibition games mean anything Green Bay will be a definite threat in the Western Division.

The Packers concluded their pre-season warmups Saturday with a 5-0-1 record. Green Bay had to battle back in the last two minutes to tie the Pittsburgh Steelers 10-10 in the final tussle.

The Chicago Cardinals, runnerup in the Eastern Division, last year, salvaged its lone exhibition victory with a 28-21 decision over the Baltimore Colts.

The Giants, out to defend their Eastern crown and league championship shut out the Detroit Lions Sunday, 17-0 for a 3-2 record and best in the Eastern Division. The San Francisco 49ers handed the Philadelphia Eagles their sixth straight setback without a victory, 17-14.

A touchdown pass from Bart Starr to Joe Johnson climaxed Green Bay's 61-yard march for the tie. Pittsburgh Dale Atkeson, recently acquired from the Washington Redskins, Sid Watson and end Jim Freeman with injuries. All will be out for an indefinite period.

Dick Lane tallied twice on 72 and 52-yard pass interceptions, the second with 30 seconds remaining to lead the Cardinals at 10-0.

The Lions defeat marked the first time they had been shutout since San Francisco turned the trick 28-0 in 1952.

San Francisco tallied two safeties and two field goals before scoring a touchdown in the final quarter to trip up Philadelphia.

SUNDAY SCHEDULE
Chicago Bears at Green Bay
Detroit at Baltimore
New York at Cleveland
Philadelphia at Los Angeles
Washington at Pittsburgh
Chicago Cardinals at San Francisco

For the first six innings the Rhinelanders had a tidy 4-1 lead. But Cincinnati pitching fell apart all at once.

Starter Brooks Lawrence, winningest Redleg pitcher, was driven from the mound early in the seventh after two singles surrounding a double brought in two runs.

Hershel Freeman came in to try his hand, but he stayed only long enough to give up three more runs on two doubles.

One final Cardinal run came when Wally Moon hit into a force out before Don Gross closed down the uprising.

Lawrence had held the Cards to two hits while the Reds stacked up an early lead.

Catcher Ed Bailey whacked his 20th home run of the year in the second inning to open Redleg scoring.

Again in the third, the Reds rallied for three more runs, starting with Lawrence's single, two walks to fill the bases and Ted Kuszewski's single that brought in two men. Another run came in after Wally Post's sacrifice fly before the rally was cut off.

The Cards finally got to Lawrence in the fifth, loading the bases and scoring Eddie Kasko while Moon hit into his first force play.

A Redleg rally brought in another run in the eighth inning when Don Hoak hit into a force out with two men on base. But winning pitcher Bill Muffett quickly stifled the rally by getting the next man on an easy out and fanning George Crowe for the third out.

Ohio Bell Strike In Second Week

Spokesmen Report No 'Significant Progress'

CLEVELAND — A strike of 18,500 Ohio Bell Telephone Co. employees entered its second week today.

Negotiations aimed at breaking a deadlock over a new contract were scheduled for 10 a. m. between the company and the Communications Workers of America.

There were afternoon and night sessions Sunday, adding up to about four hours which a union spokesman said were spent "in a thorough exploration of the issues."

The company and union did not elaborate, other than to agree that "there was no significant progress."

Some bitterness apparent in statements from the two sides after negotiations were broken off Friday seems to have dispelled. Saturday was the first day in 18 consecutive days in which there were no talks. When the bargaining resumed Sunday, Federal Conciliator Thomas W. Robertson observed: "Everyone appears more rested."

The union has insisted on a one-year contract and rejected a company offer of raises of from $2 to $4.50 a week over that period. Ohio Bell has twice suggested a 15-month contract with raises of from $2.50 to $5—and the second time included in the offer some concession on geographical differentials.

These differentials, the union has said, are an important issue in many of the 45 cities where Ohio Bell operates and a particularly hot issue among some 2,000 employees in Columbus who want pay on par with Ohio Bell's Cleveland workers.

Although the strike was officially a week old at 6 a. m. today, it is two weeks old in Ironton where nearly 150 workers walked out on a Sept. 8 deadline the union had set originally and then cancelled. The term of the old contract ended Sept. 7, but a clause in it provided for automatic extension until either party terminated it.

In Akron and Columbus most of Ohio Bell's employees have been
